Dear recruiter team,

I must confess the enormous illusion of having received your offer. I consider myself an ideal candidate because of my passion in everything related to the sector. And more in the leading company in the USA.

My extensive experience in the world of Operations Support Systems can be easily traced by consulting leading companies such as Cisco or IBM.

In addition, my current occupation as a research professor at MIT is the ideal complement to develop the skills that you need. I am, for example, a great collaborator in the development of some of the most used Linux systems.

I enclose my resume hoping to get your answer, wanting to start.

Sincerely,

Pedro Sánchez (signature hard copy letter)

Pedro Sánchez.
